

Paul Hindemith Dies In Germany

FRANKFORT, Germany (AP)—Paul Hindemith, one of the most versatile musicians of the century and a pioneer of modern composition, died in a hospital of a circulatory ailment Saturday night. He was 68.

Although internationally famed as a composer, Hindemith was equally known in Germany as one of the best viola players of his time.

Concert master at the Frankfurt Opera House at the age of 20, Hindemith weathered a Nazi ban on his works, eventually became an American citizen, and taught at Yale.

Neutral Zone Asked In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British called for a neutral zone Sunday between warring Greek and Turkish Cypriot factions in Nicosia. A brief exchange of gunfire at noon broke an air of general calm.

British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys also suggested giving British troops complete freedom of movement to restore order on the strife-torn Mediterranean island. An answer was expected at later peace talks.

Cyprus Crisis Upsets Greeks

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The Greek government plunged deeper into crisis at home Sunday while seeking to maintain a solid front in the conflict between Greeks and Turks in Cyprus.

King Paul appealed to leaders of the nations two major political parties to agree on a solution to the domestic crisis but both sides refused.

The monarch conferred for two hours at the royal palace with outgoing Premier George Papandreu, head of the Center Union party, and Panayiotis Cannelopoulos, leader of the National Radical Union—ERB—party.

Ship Sinks After Crash

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—The French freighter Capitaine Louis Malbert and the Danish tanker Rosborg collided Monday in the Kattegat Sound between Sweden and Denmark.

Hours later the 4,261-ton Louis Malbert sank.

The Swedish Coastal Command at Goteborg said 23 of the 28 crewmen aboard the French vessel had been picked up by the 12,410-ton Rosborg and unidentified Swedish ships.

The other five were missing in a lifeboat put out by the Rosborg. A search for the missing lifeboat was conducted in heavy fog.

Clouds May Fog Lunar Eclipse

BOSTON (AP)—Clouds in many parts of the United States threaten to obscure Monday's lunar eclipse.

Astronomers had hoped for fair weather to observe the 3½-hour phenomenon. Given clear skies, the passage of the earth's shadow across the moon's face would be visible in all of North America and along the west coast of South America.

The moon will enter the umbra, or dark shadow, of the earth at 4:25 a.m. EST, the Charles Hayden Planetarium said. The so-called period of totality—when the moon is completely in the earth's shadow—lasts from 5:28 until 6:47. The eclipse ends at 7:50.

Senate Leaders Expect Quorum

WASHINGTON (AP)—Confident that the required quorum will be here, Senate leaders looked Sunday to a final wind-up of the first session of the 88th Congress sometime before Monday midnight.

What is expected to be the final sitting of the session—which has lasted more than 1½ months and broken all peace-time records for length—is to start at 10 a.m. The only business is the $3-billion appropriations measure to finance the foreign-aid program for the current fiscal year which already is half gone.

Deaths Hit 35

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Another man died Sunday of what authorities tentatively diagnosed as wood-alcohol poisoning. It was the 35th such fatality since Nov. 27, including two women, in Philadelphia's skid row.

Hahnemann Hospital physicians said they recognized the latest victim, Campbell Pitts, 43, as a prior patient for treatment of alcoholism.

Johnson, Erhard Pledge To Seek East-West Peace

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard pledged Sunday they will "continue to explore all opportunities" to improve East-West relations, ease tensions and promote a just and stable peace.

Johnson and Erhard climaxed nearly two days of talks at the President's ranch-style holiday White House by issuing a communique that emphasized their willingness to seek accommodations with the Communist bloc.

The document added: "They continue to hope that this effort of the Western powers will meet a constructive response from the Soviet Union."

This was the key section of the 800-word communique, particularly in the light of a German spokesman's statement Saturday night that Erhard feels Soviet response to conciliatory Western moves is "not very encouraging."

In reporting Saturday night that Erhard conveyed these sentiments to Johnson, the chancellor's press secretary, Karl-Gunther von Hase added that Erhard is not closing the door on negotiations with the Communists.

While Von Hase's remark raised some doubt about Erhard's enthusiasm for East-West negotiations, the communique said: "The President and the chancellor agreed that it is highly important to continue to explore all opportunities for the improvement of East-West relations, the easing of tensions, and the enlargement of the prospects of a peace that can be stable because it is just."

Rickenbacker Retires At 73

NEW YORK (AP)—Capt. Edward V. (Eddie) Rickenbacker, World War I flying ace, announced his retirement Sunday as head of Eastern Air Lines to crusade for "the American way of life."

The adventurer turned executive resigned as chairman of the board, as a director and as general manager of the line.

Rickenbacker, 73, politically a conservative and an outspoken anti-Communist, said in a letter to the board: "I do not plan to be idle—not in the face of the current challenge to civilization."

"I am going to expand my crusade to save the American way of life for future generations, as I want our children, our grandchildren, and those who follow them to enjoy the American opportunities, which have been mine for 73 years."

Cambodia May Sign China Treaty

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, charged Sunday that the United States opposes Cambodian neutrality. He threatened to sign a formal alliance with Red China who, he also disclosed, has offered Cambodia arms.

The prince said that unless the West guarantees Cambodian neutrality "we will be obliged to renounce our neutrality and negotiate a formal alliance with (Communist) China."

Coinciding with his open threat to the West, Sihanouk made public a speech last Thursday at a ceremony during which he decorated 85 Chinese Communist technicians for helping build a cement factory at Charkey Ting in southern Cambodia.

In that speech he described Red China as peace-loving and congratulated it for the stand it took during last year's border dispute with India.

For years, people have asked him perplexing questions about their business lives. He has always enthusiastically and diligently sought to fulfill their needs for solutions.

Barrett is married and the father of four children. He is a vice president of the National Newspaper Syndicate which distributes his column.

Rocky Enters Oregon Race

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intensified his bid for the Republican nomination for president Sunday by announcing he would enter the Oregon Presidential preference primary.

Rockefeller, only declared candidate for the GOP nomination, will open his Oregon campaign officially in February. The primary will be held May 15.

The New York governor will be campaigning in New Hampshire and California next month. He announced previously that his name would be entered in the primaries of those two states — New Hampshire on March 10 and California on June 2.

Rockefeller's statement that he would enter the Oregon primary came at a time when his campaign appeared in need of a shot in the arm.

No Big Gain

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona had been running far ahead of Rockefeller in the unofficial competition before the assassination of President Kennedy. But, although Goldwater strength has slipped markedly since the assassination, Rockefeller appears to have made no significant gains.

An Associated Press poll published last week showed that Richard M. Nixon, former vice president and the unsuccessful GOP candidate in 1960, and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had gained as prospective nominees, while Goldwater slipped.

The race originally was seen as a contest between the conservative Goldwater and liberal Rockefeller.

Scranton Possible

But Republican thinking has been turning more toward a middle of the road—such as Nixon, Lodge or possibly Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown predicted Sunday that the 1964 Republican presidential nominee probably will be either Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania or former vice president Richard M. Nixon.

But whoever the GOP choice is, the governor said in a year-end statement, he will lose to President Johnson.

Time Picks Martin King Man Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., the civil rights leader who became a symbol of the Negro revolution in 1963, has been named Man of the Year by Time Magazine.

The magazine's editors described King in the announcement Sunday as the man who "dominated the news of that year and left an indelible mark—for good or ill—on history."

The magazine said King was the first Negro to be so designated since Time established the tradition 37 years ago.

Lakonia Sinks In Ocean

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—While towing salvage tugs stood helplessly by, the burned-out hulk of the Greek luxury liner Lakonia sank silently beneath the Atlantic Sunday.

With her to the bottom, she took the secret of how fire started and spread a week ago igniting as a disaster which took 91 lives and left 64 missing of 1,041 persons aboard the Christmas cruise ship.

It was early afternoon about 260 miles southwest of Gibraltar when the howl of the liner shot into the air and, as salvage tugs swiftly cast off the lines which bound them to the doomed vessel, she slid stern-first into 13,200 feet of water.

"It was simply too burnt out to stay afloat," said Norwegian Capt. Trygve Gassoe in charge of the attempted salvage operation.

By ship-to-shore telephone, Capt. Gassoe of the tug Herkules described the sinking to Associated Press correspondent Gunnar J. Borrevik in Oslo, Norway.

Capt. Gassoe said the ship went down in the position of 34 degrees 55 minutes north latitude and 10 degrees zero minutes west longitude.

"I don't think this contributed to the ship sinking, however," Gassoe said.

"It was simply too burnt out to stay afloat."

"The charred metal was cooling down after the fire, and this set up a lot of irregular stresses, and the weakened structure probably simply broke up."

Gassoe said that the raging fire had died down to a smoldering amidships and in the front section of the ship.

155,000 Cause Berlin Wall Traffic Jam

BERLIN (AP)—Nearly 155,000 West Berliners returning from family outings in the Communist sector of the divided city caused immense traffic jams Sunday night.

Nothing like it had been seen in postwar East Berlin as masses of people and about 17,000 automobiles converged on the five temporary holes in the wall that have served as entry and exit points. There has been some talk of keeping the wall open beyond the Jan. 5 deadline.

The official East German news agency ADN said there were 154,621 visitors in the biggest day since the holiday visits program began Dec. 20.

The busy day—more than doubling Saturdays previous highest of 69,000 persons—brought the total of visitors so far to 412,500, ADN said.

East Berlin police, back in a holiday mood, were prepared for the big tide of humanity as the West Berliners obediently headed back for home by the midnight deadline.

"This is quite an automobile show for them — the Communists — and I wonder what they think if they think at all, said one West Berlin policeman.

66 Injured Miss America Saved

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Fire on the lower floors of the 300-room Roosevelt Hotel sent smoke billowing up through the building and brought death to 21 persons in the tragic end of a gala Gator Bowl week Sunday.

Flames never got above the second floor, but most of the dead were on the upper floors, where firemen's ladders wouldn't reach and where heavy gray smoke blocked their attempts to find their way through dark hallways to the two stairways.

Miss America Saved

The reigning Miss America—Donna Axum of El Dorado, Ark.—was among several hospitalized and treated for smoke inhalation. A member of the Miss America party, 19-year-old William Fielden of Miami, was a hero in the rescue of the national beauty queen.

There were 66 injured, including 20 admitted to hospitals.

Eye witnesses reported seeing two persons tumble to their death when improvised ropes of sheets and blankets broke apart. However the medical examiner who checked the bodies said only Mrs. Marian F. Curry, 43, of Santiago, Chile, and formerly of Greensboro, N.C., died of multiple fractures. An assistant fire chief died of an apparent heart attack and the other victims died of asphyxiation by smoke, the examiner reported.

Navy helicopters plucked to safety others who fled to the roof of the 12-story structure. The city's two 100-foot aerial ladders reached only to the eighth floor of the Adams Street structure.

Many of the 479 guests were still in night clothing or partly attired when the fire from an undetermined cause broke out at about 7:45 a.m., apparently in or near the Emerald Room, a few steps up from the main lobby. The room was used as Gator Bowl press headquarters the past three days.

The opponents in the Gator Bowl football game—North Carolina and the Air Force Academy—were staying at other hotels.

Smoke Clouds Teen Minds, Hurts Grades

CLEVELAND (AP)—Evidence that smoking may impair the intellectual faculties of high school teen-agers was reported Sunday by a New York biology teacher.

Describing a survey he made in an unidentified school among certain smoking and non-smoking students George E. Caraker of Eastridge High School, Rochester, said it "indicates that smokers in high schools are poor graders, take easy courses, are poor risks in attendance, politeness and general reliability."

He told the 130th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that "smoking also tends to create disorders of personality which cause disorders of memory."

Toxins In Blood

The educator said the apparent link noted between smoking and decreased mental ability might result from "the absorption into the blood of toxins, originating from smoke, that are eventually distributed to the mechanism of memory and intelligence which is located in the cerebral cortex of the cerebrum of the brain."

Poor Grades

Declaring that "there seems to be little doubt in the minds of many" that smoking can cause physical disease, such as lung cancer and cardiovascular disorders, Caraker said it might be that psychological impairments are also associated with the mechanisms that produce such ills. And he indicated that his findings of poor grades among the high school smokers tended to bolster that view.

Good Morning!

Sign on a lonely road in a Western town: "Welcome to Powderville, Pop. 1. Mayor, Joe Hodges. Chief of Police, Joe Hodges. Fire Chief, Joe Hodges. Drive Carefully—The Life You Save May Be Joe Hodges'."

Smoky Rescue

Describing his rescue of Miss America, Fielden said: "I found Donna leaning out her 10th-floor window, choking and gasping for breath. Her chaperone was unconscious on the floor."

Fielden said he picked up the unconscious chaperone, Lucille Previtt, and told Donna to follow him. They retreated to Fielden's room across the hall, where the smoke was less dense. Firemen soon led them to safety.

Miss Axum and her chaperone were reported in good condition at a hospital where they were treated.

Death From Smoke

Chief Fire Marshal E.C. McDermott said asphyxiation caused most of the deaths. He said there was strong evidence that the blaze began in the Emerald Room but the cause was unknown.

Hotel doorman Alton Joseph Crowden called the first alarm into the fire department. He said he was in the lobby and "suddenly smoke poured out from everywhere."

Firemen found guests hanging from windows, gasping for air and pleading for rescue. Some lapsed into unconsciousness.

On the street below, police bellowed through megaphones for the people to remain inside their rooms with the doors closed to await rescue.

Many who were led to safety by firemen wearing oxygen masks assembled across the street and gazed helplessly up at those still trapped.

Tocks Island Projects Create Gloom And Boom

By Robert S. Van Fleet, Chief, Outlaw News Service

First of a five-part series

There is simultaneous gloom and boom today in the Delaware River Valley as its residents wait for a $122 million Tocks Island Dam project to become a reality.

The gloom: "This valley is like a lovely flower waiting for the frost to strike. There's a shadow hanging here."

That is the poetic way former Pennsylvania legislator August Metz of Milford talks about the 37 miles of valley from Port Jervis, N. Y., south of Stroudsburg, Pa., where a towering dam will one day back up the water to drown the land.

The boom: "One realtor reportedly sold 45 lots in a single weekend. Another developer sold over $100,000 worth of land in two months. That is the crisp economic report of Charles R. Bensinger, Stroudsburg attorney and civic leader of the Tocks Island proposals, as he talks about the sale of land in and near the project area.

Valid Contradictory

A survey along the valley among its residents shows that the apparently contradictory attitudes about what is happening are both valid.

To understand the twin attitudes, it is necessary to make a distinction about several aspects of the complicated federal government proposals to transform the valley — perhaps by 1975.

There are two major projects, separate, yet closely blended.

First, the Army Corps of Engineers had drawn plans for a 3,200-foot-long dam stretching 160 feet high from the New Jersey shore to the Pennsylvania side five miles upstream from Delaware Water Gap. When finished, the dam will hold back the river to create a lake reaching beyond Port Jervis and having more than 100 miles of shoreline.

Second, a companion project, the National Parks Service has proposed encircling the new lake with a national recreation area, the first in Eastern United States. This would entail acquisition of hundreds of square miles of land in New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania for camp sites, boat launching, swimming areas, wildlife and fish preserves.

The two proposals, linked as one in concept, are being handled separately by Congress, the dam more speedily than the recreation area.

Three Types of Land

The supposed imminence of the project has created three categories of land in the valley:

1. Land to be flooded after acquisition by the federal government.
2. Land adjacent to the new lake to be used for recreation, none of it flooded, all of it to be acquired by the government.
3. Land in the next strip outward from the lake, adjoining but not inside the recreation area, all of it to continue to be privately owned.

The gloom and uncertainty are felt by the people who live and own property where the flood will come. It is virtually impossible to sell most of the property in this area because there are few willing buyers among many willing sellers.

Ironically, the rare prospective purchaser of a special property may even find, when he gets down to cases, a reluctance to sell on the part of an owner who may think he will later get top dollar from Uncle Sam.

The boom, on the other hand, is taking place in the areas where flooding will not occur, mostly inside the vaguely drawn boundaries of the recreation area, more vigorously outside.

One of the dominating aspects of life in the valley today is uncertainty.

First, there is uncertainty over just what the present Congress, bogged down in a doleful atmosphere, will enact this year — or ever, for that matter.

The death last year of Rep. Francis E. Walter, the projects chief proponent, has left a Tocks Island leadership vacuum that has not completely been filled.

But were Congress to advance the project from the byways of committees and agencies with which Washington is honeycombed, there is still the uncertainty of just where boundary lines will fall.

Nearly every Corps of Engineers map of the area carries the warning: "All taking lines shown on this map for land acquisition are preliminary and subject to change when the project reaches the detailed design stage."

The same uncertainty leads some valley residents into an agony of indecision unwilling or able to sell land to be flooded or later acquired by the federal government.

It leads others to action. These are the speculators who are seeking now to buy as cheaply as possible land which later will increase in value.

"It's a lottery," said one resident, talking about efforts to define and acquire good business sites in the private-enterprise sector just outside the recreation boundary.

Tomorrow: Gloom in Delaware Valley.

State News Roundup

Clark Condemns Smith Election

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said Saturday that the "sudden" election of Francis R. Smith as successor to the late Rep. William J. Green Jr. as city Democratic chairman was "arbitrary, unnecessary and hasty." He said it will hurt President Johnson's chances of carrying Pennsylvania in the 1964 election.

Clark, a former Philadelphia mayor and long the leader of the city's reform and independent Democratic forces, joined Mayor James Tate in labeling Smith's campaign for party leadership a "blitz."

Clark met with Tate Friday and both men refused an invitation to attend the special meeting of party leaders which gathered to elect Smith as Green's successor.

In a statement issued from his home here, the senator said: "The unnecessary and hasty action of Francis R. Smith in persuading members of the city committee to rush through his election as chairman makes more difficult the unity needed for party victory."

Wood Alcohol May Kill 250

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dr. Joseph Spelman, city medical examiner, said Saturday that at least 250 victims of wood alcohol poisoning may die, go blind or suffer other grave afflictions if they do not receive prompt medical attention.

Since Nov. 27, 32 men and two women have died in the city from wood alcohol poisoning. Most of the victims were described by police as skid row derelicts.

Investigators are canvassing hardware stores and supply houses dealing with food catering firms in an effort to find the source of the toxic alcohol. Spelman said they are looking for an "institution-type" canned heat with a 50 per cent wood alcohol content.

He said, however, that investigators, including members of the homicide unit, are being hampered in the search by a lack of cooperation from the victims and what police called the evasiveness of shopkeepers.

Spelman said the regular canned heat, of the conventional five per cent variety, is used as a base for the homemade wood alcohol drink. The alcoholic content is not sufficient to cause death, he said.

The drink is made lethal by squeezing the alcohol out of the canned heat, then adding wood alcohol, Spelman said.

Kane Newspaper Increases Price

KANE, Pa. (AP)—Rising costs and expenses have forced the Kane Republican to raise the price of a single issue from seven to ten cents.

The move, announced Saturday, will be effective Jan. 1. The Republican is an afternoon paper published Monday through Saturday.

Black Mimmers Are 'Offensive'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Magistrate Elias G. Myers, director of the annual New Year's day mimmers parade, said Saturday he has instructed the judges to disqualify marchers in blackface.

The announcement came after the city, through Robert W. Crawford, recreation commissioner, said it disapproved of the use of blackface and asked judges not to give prizes to entries considered offensive to racial groups.

At the same time, members of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality staged a sit-in at the offices of WCAU radio and TV, protesting the station's plans to carry the parade over the air. WCAU is a CBS network affiliate.

Propeller Hits Man At Avoca

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—George M. Ricks, 48, of Atlanta, Ga., was seriously injured Saturday when he accidentally walked into the whirling propeller of a private plane at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton airport near Avoca. He was taken to Scranton General Hospital.

Ricks, his wife and son were on their way to Clark Summit, Pa., to visit relatives.

The flight started at Valdosta, Ga., with a stop at Leesburg, Va.

Delaware River Hearing Jan. 7

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Delaware River Basin commission will hold a public hearing here Jan. 7 on its proposed first annual water resources program.

The commission said Saturday it intends to wait at least 30 days to consider the public's comments and suggestions before deciding on the program. The program, a report on prospective water supply and demand through 1968, includes a recommendation for immediate construction of Tocks Island reservoir and four other multi-million dollar reservoirs.

It also calls for stepped-up enforcement of anti-water pollution regulations already in existence for the Delaware River and its tributaries.

The basin is in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

Steelman Still Backs Goldwater

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Bennett S. Chapple Jr., head of the western Pennsylvania Citizens for Goldwater committee, feels the Arizona senator has enough delegates pledged to him that he can't avoid running.

"I'm for Goldwater and believe he will run," Chapple told the Associated Press Saturday night. Chapple, who also is a U.S. Steel Corp. vice president, said all of the committee members still favor Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination.

He said the committee is still intact following the 30-day moratorium on political activity that resulted from the assassination of President Kennedy.

Stadium Needs Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commissioner William L. Slayton of the urban renewal administration said Saturday he hopes to visit the site of the proposed sports stadium in Philadelphia shortly after the new year and will then decide whether the area is eligible for federal funds.

He said he had no comment, pending that inspection, on whether the site is in an area considered to be blighted and whether it would be eligible for federal money.

The city is planning a stadium at the 30th St. station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

At a news conference Thursday, Stuart T. Saunders, PRR board chairman, said, "This project simply cannot be undertaken without the assistance of the federal redevelopment authority."

Budget Nears $1.2 Billion

HARRISBURG (AP)—The 1964-65 fiscal year general fund budget is expected to approach the $1.2 billion mark, according to budget secretary Martin H. Brackbill.

Brackbill said Saturday that the increase from the current $1.104 billion budget is due to "all the mandated increases voted by past legislative sessions."

The budget secretary added that he expected to present the financial plan to Gov. Scranton upon the chief executive's return to Harrisburg after the new year.

Scranton is scheduled to present the budget to the General Assembly Jan. 7. Scranton and Brackbill have indicated several times in past weeks that they believe there would be no need for increased taxes despite the rise in spending.

District Act Unconstitutional?

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Marshall B. Seidman of Philadelphia asked U. S. District Court Friday to rule unconstitutional the 1963 reapportionment act passed by the Pennsylvania General Assembly realigning legislative districts.

Seidman was one of five taxpayers who last month sought to restrain the Legislature from passing a reapportionment program.

A special three judge court then told the taxpayers it did not have the power to pass on the constitutionality of pending legislation. The court advised the taxpayers to amend their action after the act became law.

Since that time, the general assembly passed a reapportionment program. Now comes Seidman's action, which claims there "is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the plaintiff (Seidman) is entitled to judgment as a matter of law."

PP&L President Denies Discrimination Against Jews

ALLENTOWN — The president of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co., one of nation's 50 giant utilities charged with discriminating against Jews and other minority groups, denied yesterday that his company practices any discriminatory hiring or promotion policies.

Jack K. Busby, denying an accusation made Saturday by A. M. Sonnabend, president of the American Jewish Committee, that large utility companies use bias in selecting executive personnel said:

"I greatly regret that Mr. Sonnabend never in any way got in touch with us to discuss what is fact.

"It has been the policy of PP&L to employ to the best of our ability the most capable and qualified people in order to do a competent and effective job of meeting our public utility responsibilities.

Hiring Procedures
"We have had in effect for quite some time uniform hiring procedures and testing requirements and our doors are open to all qualified and capable people seeking employment, regardless of race or religion.

"We pride ourselves on the fact that employment, promotion and advancement is made on the basis of performance and merit, which is in keeping with the best traditions of our American society.

"For these reasons, I wish to make it very clear that we deny any policy of discrimination." Sonnabend, a Boston industrialist, said few of the utilities practice discrimination as a policy. But nevertheless, he said, they "maintain a personnel practices climate that discourages Jewish candidates and members of other religious and ethnic minority groups."

The Jewish Committee has been sponsoring and cooperating with three major studies under way for the past two years at Harvard, the University of Michigan and the University of California at Los Angeles.

The studies are designed to probe barriers to the executive level both at recruitment points and within the industries. The committee, as well as educational and research groups, said it would be available to the utilities management in developing programs which would lower the barriers and encourage the free flow of managerial skills.

Sonnabend minced no words in a statement issued through the committee's headquarters in New York in the form of a press release.

"There seems to be a built-in discriminatory screen which has a much finer mesh for Jews than for other candidates," he said.

"Jewish personnel traditionally must do better than others either to stay in the same place, or to move up on the higher managerial ladder."

Sonnabend named the 50 concerns he accused of discriminatory practices. They included, in addition to PP&L, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., of

New York, Consolidated Edison of New York and Western Union Telegraph.

Sonnabend contended that the discriminatory barriers exist both at the recruitment and promotion levels within the companies.

At the top level, he said, Jews hold less than one per cent of the total executive positions in the firms.

On the other hand, Sonnabend asserted, about eight to ten per cent of the college-trained population of this country is Jewish and managerial staffs are recruited almost completely from the ranks of college graduates.

"The problem really begins at the recruitment level when company representatives visit the colleges and graduate schools throughout the nation," he said.

Sonnabend said potential Jewish candidates for jobs in utilities management are presented with "a negative and discouraging picture of their potential and possibilities."

He accused utilities management of conforming to "a stereotyped image of what they believe the executive should be."

SYMPHONY HALL — This is the 42-acre site donated by Residential Investments to the Pocono Art Center. It is less than a mile from Old Rt. 402 (now Rt. 209) over the winding Willow Dell road (bottom right) soon to be straightened out by the State Highway Department. The proposed entrance would be from the Buttermilk Falls Road.

42-Acre Symphony Hall Site Given To Pocono Art Center

EAST STROUDSBURG — Residential Investments, Inc., has donated 42 acres near Shawnee for a permanent Pocono Art Center and 3,000-seat symphony hall for Philadelphia Orchestra summer concerts.

The gift was announced yesterday at an open house attended by more than 100 art center members at the Old Stone House in East Stroudsburg.

"We plan to raise money, get the shell up and have the first concert there next summer," said Marcia Clapp De Rocco, chairman of the art center. A dedication concert is planned Aug. 11.

Businessmen Backers — Officers of Residential Investments are Jesse R. S. Flory, former mayor of East Stroudsburg and executive at East Stroudsburg National Bank, president; Spencer C. Cramer of the R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., treasurer; and C. Edward De-

Puy, Stroudsburg attorney.

Flory and Cramer are members of the art center board of directors and have been active from the start of art center efforts to bring the Philadelphia Orchestra to a permanent summer festival in the Pocono Mountains.

"They first offered the land to the art center shortly after it was formed by Mrs. De Rocco on June 1, 1959.

"This is the result of years of work and dreams, setbacks and delays," said Cramer yesterday. "We originally offered ten acres, but the plans grew and the needs grew to the present 42-acre site," he added.

The gently sloping land is located about three miles east of the Stroudsburgs with access from Interstate Rt. 80 near the Delaware Water Gap bridge or near East Stroudsburg.

It lies between Buttermilk Falls Rd. from Willow Dell on the west, the Mt. Nebo Rd. on the north and Shawnee Rd. on the south.

The site was the largest of seven offered or suggested. It was inspected and approved recently by Henry Peltier, manager of the orchestra, and Joseph H. Santarlasci, assistant manager.

"This has been very hard going," said Mrs. De Rocco, "but about four years ago when I was about to quit, Spencer Cramer said, 'We've got a piece of land.'"

Boom For Poconos

"This is a great cultural opportunity for the Pocono Mountains," Mrs. De Rocco said. "Many communities have tried to get the Philadelphia Orchestra. Many people wanted it and here they are begging at our door. They want very much to come to the Poconos in the summer."

"The art center has assumed full responsibility for bringing the orchestra here and for building the symphony hall. The orchestra is cooperating in every way possible because they want very much to come," Mrs. De Rocco said.

"They are definitely looking to the art center to provide the place to play in the Poconos," Cramer said.

Both the art center and orchestra officials see the symphony hall as the heart of a community cultural center open for artists exhibitions, music study groups, community chorus, and art center classes in painting, sculpture, music and dance.

Plans for the 3,000-seat auditorium on sloping ground will be followed by flat-floor wings and additions which may be available for large convention use.

"This belongs to all of us. This is a marvelous gift to the whole area," said Mrs. De Rocco.

$500,000 Campaign — Mrs. De Rocco said a campaign for $500,000 would get under way in January and that ground would be broken as soon as possible in the spring.

"We are not looking to this community alone for support," Cramer said.

"We are already receiving unsolicited gifts of money and offers of help from outside Monroe County. We have received $200 from a man in Wilkes-Barre and $100 from a woman in New York City—gifts like that from people who want to have good music in the Poconos," Cramer added.

"We have been assured of substantial contributions from outside the area. We will set up area committees in other cities to be run by people who have already asked to have responsibility for raising money in their area."

"Since the Philadelphia Orchestra concert here on Friday the 13th of September, people in New York City, Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Allentown, Easton and many New Jersey communities have offered money and help," Cramer said.

"The summer concerts will be operated so that financial success is assured at every step of the way. It will not be a pay-as-you-go and we will not have a deficit every year. We will start with a few concerts and build up slowly to a six-week series in August and September each year," Cramer said.

State Police said the investigation today.

Rains End 'Gap' Water Shortage

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Heavy rains during November ended the serious water shortage in Delaware Water Gap.

Willard Kitchen, chairman of the borough's water committee, said all emergency pumping operations at Cherry Creek have been halted and that "all five springs that normally supply our water are filled."

In reporting that all restrictions on the use of water have been lifted, he said, "We are pumping water out of Caledonia Creek and filling Lettina Lake on Mt. Minsi as an extra source of water."

Kitchen said that while the borough's water supply is in "fine shape now," something will have to be done next year to improve water storage facilities.

U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney informed the council recently that the borough's application for $160,000 to build a 60-million-gallon water storage facility under the federal government's Accelerated Public Works Program will not be forthcoming this year.

Rooney said that all funds allocated under the program for fiscal 1963 have been used. He promised council, however, that the application will get priority in the coming year.

The borough will match the federal grant in a major effort to improve its watershed. The complete project will cost an estimated $320,000.

Kitchen said that even if the federal money is not received in time to start the project next spring, the borough will use its share of the overall costs to make some improvements to the watershed.

The plans, drawn by Edward Hess, borough engineer, have been approved by the State Health Department. They call for a 50-million-gallon reservoir on Mt. Minsi and a 10-million-gallon catch basin below the reservoir.

Kitchen also revealed that the plans call for placing six fire hydrants connected to eight-inch mains at various places in the borough.

Water Gap firemen were hampered recently at a serious fire on Oak St. because there was no fire hydrant on the street. They were forced to break through the ice at Cherry Creek for water.

Train Crash Victim Still Critical

EASTON — Larry Brown, 20, of 128 Brown St., Bangor, was seriously injured in a car-train crash Christmas Eve that claimed the lives of three Bangor youths, remained on the critical list last night in the Easton Hospital.

Brown, the son of Mrs. Del Brown, is suffering from a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Two other youths, including one from Stroudsburg, also hurt in the crash were reported in improved condition.

In satisfactory condition in the same hospital are Robert Winkler, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Doris Winkler, of 600 Scott St., Stroudsburg and James Gentile, 17, son of Mrs. Julio Gentile of 324 N. Ninth St., Bangor.

Mt. Pocono Couple Hurt In Crash

YATESVILLE — A Mount Pocono man and wife were injured Saturday at 11 a.m. in a two-car crash on Rt. 315 in Yatesville.

Injured were Thomas and Maru Imperato of 35 Kinney Ave., Mt. Pocono, and Martin Finneran, 25, of Carbondale, driver of the second car. All were taken to the Pittston Hospital, Pittston, Pa.

Imperato, 49, is being treated for an injured left leg and a possible broken right arm. His condition is good.

His wife, Mary, 41, has a fractured nose and possible neck and internal injuries. Her condition is fair.

Finneran was admitted with a fractured leg. He was transferred yesterday to the Carbondale Hospital, where his father is a doctor.

State Police at Wyoming said Finneran was traveling north on Rt. 315, which was covered with hard packed snow and ice, lost control of his car. It slid across the highway and struck the car operated by Thomas Imperato.

They added that Finneran's car was completely demolished. They gave no estimate of damage to the Imperato vehicle.

Hasty decisions at a time of sorrow makes clear thinking extremely difficult. Avoid this by making your selection now.

Poverty In America

There is widespread poverty in America at a time when new records for prosperity are being set in almost every field. It is one of the paradoxes of our civilization.

While average family income is $5,700, there are 13,600,000 families and unrelated individuals with total incomes of less than $2,000 a year. That is 23 per cent of the 58.4 million families or unrelated individuals in the country.

Figures from the federal Bureau of the Census show that only 500,000 families and unrelated individuals received $25,000 a year or more.

Labor statistics show that while a new record of 69 million jobs exist in the United States, unemployment continues at recession levels of between 4.5 and 5 million. While the average factory worker makes $100 a week, the families and individuals in the lowest income bracket (under $2,000 a year) make less than $40 a week.

That is a shocking revelation to many Americans who assume that the nation's prosperity and $600 billion gross national product are benefiting the whole population.

In a social sense, the lowest income group is the most important because it raises many problems for the rest of the population.

It is the focus of federal and state programs to help crime, juvenile delinquency, blighted urban areas, slums, school dropouts, narcotics addicts and other serious social problems.

This situation prompted U. S. Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz to warn Saturday that the rapidly growing labor force and automation are creating "a human slag heap" in the midst of prosperity.

"We cannot tolerate the development of a separate nation of the poor, the unskilled, the jobless, living within another nation of the well-off, the trained and the employer," Wirtz said.

But that is just what the nation faces. President Johnson has promised to start finding a solution to the problem with a "poverty package" of special pilot programs to meet the human needs of the low income class.

New manpower training and vocational education legislation passed by Congress is supposed to help this unprivileged class. And many private agencies devote their hearts, talents and money to help the poor.

But the job is just begun, and the problem is huge. We cannot boast capitalism's complete success or feel that we have completed the American democratic revolution before we have brought one fifth of our population from the condition of poverty in which it now lives.

Comment Of The Day

"I am going to expand my crusade to save the American way of life for future generations, as I want our children, our grandchildren, and those who follow them to enjoy the American opportunities which have been mine for 73 years."

—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I flying hero as he announced his retirement as board chairman of Eastern Airlines.

Vote In Vain

WASHINGTON — Reps. Leo W. O'Brien of New York and Abner W. Sibal of Connecticut figure to make it home for New Year's Eve without knocking themselves out, but they blew it for Christmas Eve because of a temporary mental lapse.

Mr. O'Brien is an ardent Democrat, and Mr. Sibal an equally fervid Republican. Two nights before Christmas, the former had started for his home in Albany, and the latter for his home in Norwalk.

By not too much coincidence, seeing that the first leg of their homebound journey is over the same route, they were together in New York's LaGuardia Airport when, to quote Rep. O'Brien, "We both got anguished come — back calls from our respective captains."

By this he meant that he had been paged and implored to return to Washington by Speaker John W. McCormack, and Sibal had been simultaneously paged and implored by House Minority Leader Charles Abraham Haleck.

Being loyal party men, they said "Yes" to their leaders' pleas to come back and vote on the foreign aid appropriation bill. But they found they couldn't get a plane to Washington. They rode to Pennsylvania Station and caught a train.

The choo — choo was pulling out of Baltimore, the last stop before Washington, when Rep. O'Brien clapped his head so violently to his forehead he almost kayoed himself.

"We didn't have to do this!" he howled. "I'm going to vote for President Johnson's bill, and you're going to vote against it. I could have told McCormack, and you could have told Haleck, to pair us. Here we're travelling all the way back to Washington to cancel each other out!"

The LBJ bill passed, without O'Brien or Sibal affecting the outcome, and the unpaired duo made a second try for home, only to find all planes going their way filled. It was early Christmas Eve before they got out of here by train, and just about made their homes by Christmas morning.

In addition to blowing Christmas Eve in the bosom of his family, Rep. O'Brien blew a speaking engagement. He was scheduled to address the Albany Kiwanis Club the day before Christmas. The subject that had been given him was, "Albany and Washington — 'The Twin Shall Always Meet'."

When O'Brien phoned to explain why he couldn't make it, the toastmaster got up and told the Kiwanians:

"Our beloved Congressman was to address us on, 'The Twin Shall Always Meet', but he missed the twain."

When Mr. O'Brien finally did get to his home he was greeted by his wife with:

"Well, you asked me what I wanted for Christmas. I have decided what I want."

"What?" asked the vote-and-travel weary lawmaker.

"Your resignation," said Mrs. O'Brien.

The call — back to vote also robbed Rep. O'Brien of an opportunity to do any Christmas shopping for his seven grandchildren, aged 10 to 1. But he came up with an idea, highly unappreciated by his family.

"I think," he said, "I will give each of them a subscription to the Congressional Record."

No Scranton Boom

Maybe we do not converse with the right people, but Gov. William W. Scranton's half-hearted announcement that he is a Republican candidate for the presidency is not meeting with shouts of "great news."

The Scranton image among a cross section of Pocono Mountains businessmen, politicians and men and women on the street is clouded somewhat.

We can't put our finger on any specific reason why some people at present are rejecting the head of the commonwealth.

Some say he does not appear forceful enough. Others claim he is little known outside of his own bailiwick — Pennsylvania.

A third party cited his youth, and still another pointed out that his inexperience not a full two years in Congress and a little over a year in Harrisburg — would make him easy prey for the wheelers and dealers in national circles.

This corner attempted to explain that Scranton's image is looming larger across the fifty states.

National publications are throwing his qualifications and photogenic face at millions from Bangor, Me., to Honolulu, Hawaii, to Portland, Oregon, and Nome, Alaska.

He is no babe in the woods, this son of one of Pennsylvania's most famous GOP national committee-men. While he may touch off criticism in the Keystone State, well planned attacks are profitably showing "that the hills are green far away."

By his own admission, Gov. Scranton will go to the GOP Presidential convention in San Francisco as a favorite son with flexible powers.

He and the Pennsylvania delegation could throw the convention into a frenzy if Barry Goldwater's anticipated support drops short; Richard Nixon's recall falls on deaf ears; Nelson Rockefeller's backing is lacking; and other favorite sons like George Romney fail to be favorites.

We doubt that Scranton will settle for a vice president call. Why should he? After all, rightfully he can claim as much capability — with or without the experience, as any reported candidate offered by the GOP.

The only reason Scranton's full-fledged movement toward the highest office in the land detoured was the expected running of the late John F. Kennedy on the Democratic ticket.

However the assassination of the former President changed history and enabled Scranton to reconsider so-called drafts by party powers.

Experts, and we are sure Scranton seconded the motion, felt JFK would make it easy for a second term.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower, while living the life of a squire in Gettysburg and California, still has a lot of pull in the Republican Party. His recent meeting with Gov. Scranton opened the door for bigger support for the man whose political road has been less than smooth but still not rocky enough to cast hurting stones.

We can't keep wondering, though, why the small guy — the fellow who votes in or out a candidate — isn't buying William W. Scranton as presidential timber.

Of course Mr. and Mrs. Q. Public could change their mind if a steam-roller mushrooms the governor into the nomination. However, right now they are saying no

The Allen-Scott Report

Mrs. Oswald's Father Is Russian Intelligence Agent

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — The father of Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald is a colonel in the Soviet military intelligence service, on duty in the Minsk region.

Oswald lived for some time in that area during his three years in Russia.

The disclosure regarding Mrs. Oswald's father is among the most startling in the unpublished 127-page FBI report titled "Investigation of the Assassination of President Kennedy."

Beyond reporting what had been gleaned from Mrs. Oswald regarding her father's occupation, the FBI does not delve further into the matter. There is no indication in the FBI study of any connection between this information and the murder committed by Oswald.

Another significant disclosure in the FBI report is the estimate of $3,560 as the killer's income in his last 14 months. This figure was based on his widow's accounting.

Mrs. Oswald will be personally questioned by the special commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren. This interrogation will be private.

No consideration has yet been given to holding public hearings.

The commission will hold some public sessions, but not until after the trial of Jack

Ruby, slayer of Oswald. The commission already has decided on that. It has given no thought as yet to witnesses to be heard at the open sittings.

Similarly the FBI report, now in the hands of the commission, will eventually be published. But this may not be until the commission makes its own report.

The FBI study consists of six "books": two containing a largely chronological recital of events leading up to and following the assassination, and four mostly of exhibits.

J. Lee Rankin, general counsel of the commission, is compiling a list of questions on the basis of the FBI report.

These questions apply to both Oswald and Ruby, and deal with a number of "unanswered gaps." Foremost among them is Oswald's mysterious trip to Mexico last fall (September 26 to October 3).

The Central Intelligence Agency has reported he was accompanied by two women and a man, the latter subsequently flying to Cuba. The CIA also ascertained that while in Mexico City, Oswald applied to the Cuban consulate for a transit visa to Moscow. He was told he would first have to get a visa from the Soviet, but so far as is known he did not seek that.

At the special commissions request, the FBI has resumed its probing of both Oswald and Ruby. These investigations are proceeding simultaneously.

Uncle Sucker — Jordan King Hussein is making no bones he is trying to play Russia off against the U.S. to ensure getting more aid from this country.

The Arab monarch frankly admitted that in a talk with former Ambassador William Macomber. An old friend of President Johnson Macomber is slated for a top job in the Alliance for Progress.

Before leaving Jordan, Macomber bluntly questioned Hussein about reports he contemplated seeking military as-stance from Russia. It was during this discussion, that the King candidly acknowledged considering pursuing the tactics followed by Egypt's Gamal Nasser in playing both sides to the middle.

Jordan has received $325.5 million in U.S. aid. Of this, $321.2 million has been in grants; $4.3 million in loans. This year more than $70 million has been given Jordan in various forms of economic and military assistance.

This aid includes a considerable sum for "budget support" — funds to balance Jordan's budget, while that of the U.S. is deeply in the red.

King Hussein earnestly assured Ambassador Macomber he is a "loyal ally and friend" of the U.S. and the West. He emphatically denied any intention of establishing diplomatic relations with the Soviet.

"What A Pleasant Surprise,
What Can I Do For You, Mr. President?"

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Republicans, rounding out their first year at the helm on Capitol Hill following eight years of Democratic "occupation," within the space of the past twelve months have managed to entrench themselves rather well.

If you compare this first year of Republican transition with that first year of Democratic transition back in 1955 when they hoisted GOPsters out following nearly two decades of solid Republican rule, the edge on the "adjustment" front must go to contemporary elephant riders.

The transition has not been completed by any means — but at least it is well on its way at this point of the assured four — year stint.

Perhaps one reason for the comparatively speedy switch-over on the part of Republicans during the past year has been the snappy manner in which old line former GOP payrollers have been hauled out of mothballs and recalled to Capitol Hill patronage posts.

On the other hand when Democrats scurried up the hill in 1955 for their first go at running the show since the 1930's, they had virtually no one to which to turn for demobbing; in other words they had little choice other than to start from scratch.

It is true that some of the more hearty brethren of that Democratic era of a quarter century earlier were still hanging around when donkey riders moved in nine years ago but they were few and far between and those who had not been felled by attrition in the intervening years were too close to it in most instances to be recalled.

Thus Pennsylvania Democrats in 1955 had virtually no cushion — while Republicans this year had a fairly sizeable pocket from which to draw following only eight years of absence. That they have done just this is clearly evidenced by the "old timers" you find today parking their cars in their old parking stalls.

It is this condition that has accounted for the relatively fast turnover in personnel (from Democrat to Republican) on Capitol Hill during the past year — and the same reason why the turnover was so agonizingly slow to Democratic patronage holders during the late 1950's when Democrats took over the helm.

As (at the time) Democratic Governor George M. Leader commented as the clamor from the fellow partisans rose: "You just can't houseclean at one shot; orderly government must still continue."

He was quite right, of course. It was bad enough as it was in those days of the completely inexperienced veteran GOP officeholders during those first two years of the Leader Administration, with fumbly and ball — dropping more the order of the day than anything else.

However by the time Mr. Leader's tenure ended — some four years and a deflating senatorial campaign later — the new political blood that infused Capitol Hill had become a fairly steady flow.

In fact, by the time Democratic successor David L. Lawrence squatted in the plush red leather gubernatorial chair in 1959 the transition to all intents and purposes had been completed.

Capitol Hill was back to something approaching a state of normalcy once again. Mr. Lawrence continued the status quo and in this second four-year Democratic sojourn, affairs on the mound (personal — wise) became somewhat static and soothing. As a result, after four years, the Lawrence tenure (operationally speaking) became a routine and modestly well functioning tenure.

In contrast today it hasn't taken Pennsylvania GOPsters anything like four years to start the lawnmowers going on Capitol Hill.

The past twelve months have demonstrated rather clearly the speed with which the transition can be made "under favorable circumstances" — favorable that is, from the standpoint of being in the position of having "reserves" upon which to call.

Of course the true end result is something else; that is, there is considerable question even now as to how healthy it is to recall these GOP rethreds to the public trough — when they were part of a grooved, antiquated system in the first place that produced victory for the "opposition"

State GOP Takeover

Dear Abby

Going To The Dogs!

DEAR ABBY: Can you explain the idiocy in people who own toy poodles? My sister was given one and she has become positively insufferable. She calls this dog, "My baby boy!" She kisses it and spends half a day combing and brushing him. She has a sweet granddaughter who is three years old, and naturally when the little girl wants to get on her grandmother's lap and the poodle is there, she resents it. The child gets no comfort at all. My sister takes the dog for a ride and leaves the grandchild standing on the sidewalk in tears. I have stopped going over there because of her disgusting behavior. What could be the matter with a grown woman who acts like this?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: One nasty curbside analysis is as good as another. Your sister could be using the dog to punish the child because grand-mama probably wanted a grandson and she got a granddaughter. The dog is a male, and grand-mama has transferred all her affection to the dog. Or maybe grand-mama just likes poodles.

DEAR ABBY: I am five going on six and my mother told me I should write to you and ask this question: Is there a Santa Claus?

Love
HEIDI

DEAR HEIDI: You bet there is. He's the man who buys your shoes, pays the rent and kisses your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married until recently. I have never been the jealous type because I have never had any reason to be. But things have changed. I wonder if a couple we've been seeing a lot of lately could have anything to do with it. The woman is flirty and aggressive and she never takes her eyes off my husband. My husband and hers have a business relationship, so it wouldn't be easy to drop them, and I can't tell her off. Is there a subtle way to handle this? My husband seems to enjoy her attention, but it is getting on my nerves.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Why look for a clever or subtle way to state a fact? Jealousy under these circumstances is understandable. Tell your husband you are jealous! And don't take your eyes off him, either. Sometimes the bald truth works wonders.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't people who call you on the telephone wait long enough for you to get to the phone to answer it? The telephone company suggests that the caller wait until there have been TEN rings before hanging up. Very few people let the telephone ring more than three times. "I was afraid you were lying down," is no excuse for hanging up after you've awakened the person anyway. If a call is worth making, it is worth giving the person called a chance to answer. I hope you'll use my name as I would like those who call me to be a little more patient. No less than ten rings, please!

Speaking Of Your Health:

Just What Is Glaucoma?

Glaucoma is a condition of the eye which strikes overwhelming terror in those who are afflicted with it, and in those who, unnecessarily live in fear of acquiring it.

The vast contributions of science, medicine and eye surgery in the past two decades have made glaucoma a disease which sometimes can be anticipated, often prevented, and very frequently kept in complete control.

Glaucoma has occupied the attention of eye specialists for many years because it is one of the major causes of blindness, particularly when the diagnosis is delayed by neglect and treatment instituted too late.

Not a cataract, glaucoma is not a cancerous either. It is not contagious. The diagnosis can readily be established even while the exact origin is being determined.

The one absolute essential for the earliest detection of this illness is the regular examination of the eyes.

In essence, there are two distinct types of glaucoma. One, called primary glaucoma is suspected of being hereditary in origin. The other, called secondary glaucoma is the result of inflammation, infection, or tumors of the delicate eye structure.

Noblesse Oblige

A young man had just finished his tour of duty and had been released from the Air Force and had entered the fall semester of a Western university. One morning he was 10 minutes late for his nine o'clock class. The professor, knowing the young man was on the GI Bill, hawled him out in front of the class.

"When you were in the service and came in late like this," the professor said, "what did they say to you?"

"Well, when I came in late," the student said, "they just stood up, saluted and said, 'How are you this morning, colonel, sir?'"

LIMEY

The British Navy was once plagued by scurvy, a disease which weakens its victims, makes their gums spongy, and even results in death.

In the mid-18th century, Dr. James Lind began a study of the sailors diet — which consisted mainly of meat, dried beans and bread. He came to the conclusion that the addition of lemon or lime juice to the diet would prevent scurvy.

English ships were required to carry quantities of lime juice for the sailors, and the disease was soon conquered. In the process, English sailors came to be called "limeys," and the use of the slang name was extended to all Englishmen.

Burroughs Calls Production Halt

DETROIT (AP) — Burroughs Corp. announced recently that because of high production costs it will stop manufacturing adding machines in the United States and close its main Detroit plant within two years, eliminating about 1,500 jobs.

Burroughs also announced it will consolidate its electronic instrument division in Philadelphia and the electronic components division at Plainfield, N. J., in an expanded plant at Plainfield by the fall of 1964.

Retail Sales Above Average In Monroe County

NEW YORK — Consumer spending in Monroe County was high in the past fiscal year and gives every promise of going higher.

Local residents returned to the market place in force. The loss of confidence they had suffered in the Spring of 1962, when the stock market took a nose dive, was all but forgotten as they proceeded to pick up where they had laid off.

The result is to be seen in the volume of business registered by local retail stores in the 12-month period ending June 30, 1963.

The figures are contained in a new report issued by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It lists net earnings, spending, retail activity and other pertinent facts for communities in all parts of the country.

For Monroe County, it shows that retail business in the year came to $56,502,000 passing the previous year's $53,941,000.

With this volume, local merchants accounted for .0235 per cent of the national total, the report states. This was more than their proportionate share, since the local population is only .0219 per cent of the national.

New car sales were the strongest part of consumer spending throughout the period.

Other big - ticket items, such as air conditioners, washers, dryers and refrigerators, also benefited from the return of consumer confidence.

Sparking the general business improvement was the powerful economic force of rising incomes. With more money in their pockets, with prices fairly steady and with the business outlook favorable, people began to spend more freely.

Net income to Monroe County in the year, after allowing for taxes, reached a total of $78,151,000. It was more than in fiscal 1962, $77,644,000.

Milk Price May Rise For Farmer

NEW YORK — Monroe County dairy farmers who sell their milk in the New York - New Jersey marketing area can expect to average 16 cents more per hundredweight in 1964 than they did this year, according to the market administrator.

Dr. A. J. Pollard, associate administrator for the New York - New Jersey marketing area, said that producers who deliver milk to pool handlers in the coming January-June period can expect to receive an average price of $4.04 per hundredweight compared to $3.88 in the same period in 1963.

He estimated that prices paid by handlers for fluid milk will average 17 cents per hundredweight higher than this year. The average price is expected to be $5.15 per hundredweight. The average price in 1963 was $4.98.

Higher farm and fluid prices are anticipated in each month of the forecast period, Dr. Pollard said. The largest increase in farm prices is expected to be 19 cents per hundredweight in January and March. The smallest rise seen in 11 cents in May.

Dr. Pollard explained that uniform prices are those paid to dairy farmers. They are determined by the use made of all the milk delivered to pool handlers. Fluid prices are paid into the pool by handlers who also pay for other milk according to its use.

Employment Shows Drop In State

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's total employment registered a seasonal decline of 14,300 jobs from mid - October to mid - November to reach an estimated level of 4,289,900, the state Secretary of Labor and Industry announced yesterday.

William P. Young said that seasonal losses in farm employment and the self - employed, unpaid - family and domestic workers group accounted for the major portion of the job decline.

Despite the decline, the mid-November total employment level was 10,700 above last year.

Average weekly earnings of $98.60 for all manufacturing industries were up 39 cents over the October figure due to a gain of one cent in average hourly earnings as the length of the work week held steady, according to the secretary.

He said this was $4.37 higher than the weekly earnings of November 1962, with both hourly earnings and the length of the work week showing substantial over - the-year gains.

Population Explosion Loses Steam

NEW YORK — The population explosion is losing some of its steam in the United States.

According to statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the number of births decreased moderately in 1963, and at the year's end will be somewhat below the 1957 record peak of 4,300,000. Nevertheless, 1963, which will record a total of about 4,100,000 births, marks the tenth year in succession that births have exceeded four million.

Despite the recent declines, the rate for second births in 1963 will be only about one-sixth below the high point reached in 1949. Second births, which had numbered more than one million a year since 1947, are expected to fall slightly below that level this year, the statisticians report.

Third and subsequent births have been accounting for an increasing proportion of the total, from 38 per cent in 1950 to about 49 per cent now. The statisticians attribute this to the sustained high rate for third and fourth children.

For third births, the rate has been at least 30 per 1,000 married women under 45 for more than a decade. The rate for fourth children has risen to about 20 per 1,000 in recent years. Fifth and higher order of births, too, have reached relatively high levels. Their number this year is not expected to be much below the 1961 all - time high of about 762,000 the statisticians concluded.

Change Looks Quickly

Just as you don't wear the same color day after day, year after year, why live with walls of the same old color a moment longer than you want to, when about $10 worth of quality paint from Pocono Paint, 722 Main St., Stroudsburg, and a few hours of your time can change the entire appearance of any room in the house.

With today's odorless, quick-drying, easy to apply paints, you can paint indoors at any season of the year and enjoy the rewards of your work the same night you start. And you have literally hundreds of colors from which to choose, according to Douglas Delp, manager, Pocono Paint-Up.

A flat paint—alkyd or latex—is best for ceilings and walls because it reflects light evenly without glare. The exceptions to this general rule are kitchens.

To divide one area of a room from another, various devices can be used. Paneled wood screens are one graceful solution.

Various storage pieces also can serve as room dividers. One new divider in American walnut has shelves and cupboard space alternating with decorative panels.

For a low-level room divider, there is a rectangular cocktail table that conceals linen storage. This walnut chest is finished on all four sides. It can be placed anywhere to break up the length of a room.

Bookshelves of walnut, supported by poles are still another effective device. When the shelves are installed permanently they can be closed off at one side with wood paneling.

If the divider is to be built into the room, another good device is to frame shout screens in walnut. These translucent Oriental screens let the light filter through. Handsome woodwork accents their sheerness and delicacy.

An excellent divider is a storage section extending at least five feet from a wall. Most storage sections are custom built. Walnut doors that open from either side make it easy to get to chinaware or linens stored in the cabinets.

Have Morman Spruce Up Your Home

The bathrooms of many homes are getting extra-heavy use these days, with the children "sprucing up" for school, and Dad in a hurry to get off to work. Floors are wet with water, walls splashed and Mom has the job of "mopping up."

Why not turn the job of beautifying your walls and floors over to an expert in the field? A swish of a mop or damp cloth will make the clean-up job a snap and you'll be proud of the smart appearance L. V. Morman & Son can give your bathroom.

In flooring, one may select from a rainbow of colors in linoleum, vinyl, tile or yard goods to obtain any effect you desire.

In wall tile choose plastic or ceramic tile for the job in either regular or "king" size tiles. The transformation will ease work for Mother and make it a joy to care for. Let L. V. Morman & Son show you their broad selection and help you with your floor and wall tiling problems.

They're located at 326 Main St. in Stroudsburg.

A phone call (421-4411) will bring one of their experts to your home if you have a problem area which requires looking over.

Change Basement Into Playroom With A Few Gallons Of Paint

You can change your basement into a bright family or play room with a few gallons of colorful, quick-drying quality paint and a few hours of work in which every family member can join. Your local reputable paint dealer can provide you with the quality paint.

Since almost all basement walls contain cement in one form or another, you must use a paint that will not be affected by the alkali present in cement which is not compatible with ordinary oil paint. In addition to selecting the right paint, proper surface preparation and correct application are also necessary for a successful job, points out the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

There are a number of different quality paints that are suitable for basement walls. Easiest to use are the latex paints made for use on masonry; they are quick-drying and the painting tools are easy to clean afterward. Highly regarded, too, are portland cement paints, swimming pool paints and reinforced masonry paints. For a tile-like finish on concrete block, there are also some epoxy coatings.

After selecting your color and type of paint, the next step is to prepare the surface properly. In most instances, this consists of removing dirt, dust and loose or crumbling material with a wire brush. Grease or oil should be wiped away with paint thinner or detergent. Be sure to patch or caulk all cracks and holes. A crumbling surface may need a coat of special binding conditioner.

You don't have to wait for the walls to dry after washing if you use the latex paints. But, be sure to prime any bare metal in the walls with an anti-corrosive metal primer first. After this has dried, apply the paint with brush, roller or spray.

Portland cement paints are popular because they are long-lasting and because they are the only paints which will prevent moisture under low pressure from coming through the walls. No interior coating will hold back water under pressure, however.

The only way to keep permeable basement walls dry is to apply a heavy coat of asphalt to the outside of the walls before back-filling; this should, of course, be done while the house is being built. In addition, the earth near the foundation should be graded for easy runoff of rain water.

Portland cement paints cannot be used over surfaces that have been previously painted with anything except portland cement paint. The walls must be kept wet while the cement paint is curing. Once it has dried, it provides a long-lasting coating that bonds with the very walls.

Generally light colors are chosen for basement walls to obtain a maximum amount of light reflection.

See R. C. Cramer Lumber Co. for all your building needs.

Sheet-Board was developed in the research laboratories of the Western Pine Association. It is manufactured of standard boards laid side by side, sandwiched and glue-bonded by heat and pressure between two sheets of tough paper. The resulting panel has the thickness of an average board and can be sawn or nailed as easily as ordinary lumber.

This easy-to-handle product is strong and rigid. Most Sheet-Board measures two by eight feet and weighs approximately 32 pounds. Thus a workman often can handle two panels at a time. However, it also is available in a variety of lengths, widths and thicknesses.

Sheet-Board was developed for a number of reasons. First of all, its size provides for speed in the sheathing operation. It also was developed so as to give eye appeal to an economical and plentiful grade of lumber that is well-suited to sheathing. By turning this lumber into Sheet-Board, the industry has found another way to use the natural resources of our forests to their fullest extent.

Tannersville Lutheran Women Have Unusual Christmas Program

Tannersville — The December meeting of the Lutheran Church Women of St. Paul's opened with acolyte Beth Werkheiser lighting three candles in the Advent wreath.

The program topic, "A Christmas Parable," was led by Ruth Werkheiser. Mary Strunk read John 3:16 and Luke 2:16 - 18, then led the opening prayer.

Ruth Werkheiser explained that Christmas comes every year as a reminder that God gave His Son on the first Christmas.

"To some," she "said," Christmas is merely a day of festivity. To others it is a time to attend church, even if they have not attended all year. To those who have prepared all year, the true meaning of Christmas brings forth blessings. "Then she told the story of little Laurie, who learned to receive."

"Christmas and children were meant for each other," Betty Warner said. She recalled childhood memories and told how as Christmas approaches, we like to revert to some of our experiences as children. These include gifts, carols, stories, greetings and cookies.

Lydia Sebring spoke about the "busyness" of the season, filled with events, people and places. She said that she imagined that Bethlehem, on the night of Christ's birth, was extremely crowded, too after all, there was no room for Mary and Joseph in the inn.

Roberta Rasely urged the members to not become too busy during the holy season for quiet meditation, Bible reading and prayer. Daily during the year most people try to spare a few moments for this. At Christmas time we need more than ever to spend some time alone to ponder the message of the season.

As Shirley Curtis spoke a spotlight played upon a family gathered around a table for devotions. She explained now this family celebrates Christmas in a different way each year.

The aim of the program was to emphasize Christmas as a blessing, view it as a unique and individual experience, and to emphasize the preparation and receiving of Christ at Christmas.

Hymns appropriate to the program were played by pianist Vera Walters.

Betty Woodling led the offering prayer.

Cora Sebring presided at the business session. Marjory Sebring reported on the November meeting. A financial report was presented by Vera Walters.

Plans were made to make candle holders for the candles and to distribute them to the Sunday School members on the Sunday prior to Christmas.

Outreach and fellowship chairman Betty Woodling reported on offerings and suggested that members send in offerings if they are unable to be present at meetings.

The group decided to have a committee responsible for calling members and reminding them of meeting dates. Mary Jean Learn was named committee chairman.

Members voted to supply flowers for the altar vases in February, in honor of the LOW anniversary.

Hannah Snapp was reported ill and a patient in Mercy Hospital, Scranton. Members were urged to send her cards.

A letter of thanks was read from the Monroe County Council of Church Women, thanking the LCW for helping fill Christmas stockings.

Plans were made to furnish name cards for all persons attending the annual congregational dinner to be held at the church on January 14. The Christian action committee, with Annabelle Peechatka chairman, will be in charge of the dinner and program.

A suggestion was made that the program topic for January be changed. Karen Adam is planning a program on missions instead of using the previously scheduled topic.

Announcement was made of the annual dinner of the World Council of Church Women, to be held at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church on January 9, at 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested in attending should call Cora Sebring before January 6, so reservations may be made. Cost of the meal will be $1.75, per person.

Members were urged to attend Christmas eve services at St. Marks, Appenzell.

Hostesses for the January 28 meeting will be Eve Janson, Helen Holland and Olive Munch.

Ruth Learn reported 24 members, two guests and Pastor Adams present at the meeting.

The meeting closed with the missionary benediction.

Refreshments were served by Elsie Besecker, Ethel Hill, Betty Brader and Margie Woodling.

Giants Must 'Wade' 'Til Next Year; Bow To Bears, 14-10

U.S. Davis Captain Says 'Corner Has Been Turned'

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — "Winning the Davis Cup should be a great boost for tennis in America," Bob Kelleher, the happy United States Captain said Sunday night. "I think we finally have turned the corner."

Kelleher, tall, smooth-talking Los Angeles attorney, and four members of the successful team boarded a transoceanic jet airliner at 7 p.m. for this long flight home.

With them was the massive silver bowl, symbol of world tennis supremacy, returning to the United States for the third time since 1951.

"I don't intend to let this thing get out of my sight until I officially turn it over to someone," Kelleher said.

With him and the Cup were the two young collegians who broke Australia's five-year monopoly — Wimbledon champion Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston — as well as reserve members Frank Froehling and Martin Riessen.

Stays In Australia

The fifth member, Gene Scott of St. James, N. Y., is remaining in Australia for the national championships starting in Brisbane Jan. 3.

At Honolulu the members break up to go their separate ways.

McKinley 23-year-old Trinity University student from St. Ann, Mo., and Ralston, 21-year-old University of Southern California undergrad from Bakersfield, Calif., had an exhibition in Honolulu scheduled for Sunday.

Meanwhile, the Australian press hailed the American victory and expressed concern over when this tennis-minded nation may regain its position of dominance.

Most Powerful

The consensus is that the United States is ready to take over as the most powerful nation in the game.

"America now definitely is in the driver's seat," said Don Lawrence, tennis authority for the Melbourne Age newspaper. "Australian strength is uncertain because of the player revolt. We may be trying to win back the Cup with a bunch of juniors and second raters."

The reference was to the feud between Roy Emerson and four other top ranking Australian players and the Tennis Association of Australia over the association's refusal to sanction overseas play before March 31.

The move was made to keep players in Australia for appearances in provincial tours.

Turning Pro?

Emerson and four other members of Australia's top 10—Fred Stolle, Ken Fletcher, Bob Hewitt and Martin Mulligan — said they are seriously considering the pro offer made by Frank Sedgman, president of the Professional Tennis Players Association.

Sedgman said the group could join the pro tour and play for prize money which could earn them between $7,000 and 30,000 a year. No guarantee is made.

"We are looking into this alternative if the association persists with this ban," Emerson said. The players are also considering migration to Britain.

East, West Yell 6-6 'Robbery'

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 39th East-West Shrine classic, top attraction among a quartet of holiday gridiron fixtures Saturday, wound up in a frustrating 6-6 standoff.

But, after 60 minutes of hard-nosed football in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium, neither college all-star club was ready to accept the outcome.

cons had been gunned down by North Carolina, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl.

Happy In Dixie

The only rays of sunshine after the day's action, preliminary to next Wednesday's main events in the college bowl picture, came out of Dixie.

Montgomery, Ala., rejoiced after the Southern stars, brilliantly directed by Georgia quarterback Larry Rakestraw, outscored the North, 21-14, in the Blue-Gray game. Orlando, Fla., was a bright spot for the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers, who whipped the Coast Guard Academy, 27-0, in the Tangerine Bowl.

"We wuz robbed," cried the East stars, who thought they'd lost the winning touchdown on an official's bad call. "We wuz had," echoed the Westerners, who believed they'd lost a decisive fourth-quarter safety on another officing blunder.

"We were terrible," admitted Air Force Coach Ben Martin in Jacksonville, Fla., after his Fal-

Chapel Hill, N. C., cheered its Tarheels after pile-driving halfback Ken Willard and quarterbacks Junior Edge and Gary Black riddled Air Force defenses for 370 yards and 23 first downs and stymied Falcon star Terry Isaacson in the Gator mismatch.

Patriots Move From Snow To Sunshine

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — There isn't a meteorologist among the Boston Patriots, but the American Football League's Eastern Division champions are well acquainted with the fact that Buffalo and San Diego are separated by 3,000 miles and about 50 degrees.

It was the Patriots' ability to deal with 20-degree weather and an ice-coated field that proved the decisive factor Saturday in a 26-8 victory over the Buffalo Bills in a playoff for the Eastern title. The Patriots now move on to sunny San Diego for the championship battle with the Chargers next Sunday.

Babe Parilli and Gino Cappelletti, who had a hand or foot in every point scored by the Patriots, placed their finger squarely on the decisive factor in the Boston dressing room.

West's Gamesaver

And Texans singled out Texas Tech end Dave Parks as the West's gamesaver in the Shrine deadlock. Parks blocked the extra-point kick that would have given the East a 7-6 verdict in a defensive battle marked by 10 pass interceptions.

As for the post-game dissatisfaction: The East grieved about Jay Wilkinson's 55-yard scoring bomb to Iowa's Paul Krause, which was called back when an official ruled that the Duke halfback crossed the scrimmage line before he let loose.

The West's beef stemmed from Michigan State scabbard Sherman Lewis' attempt to run out of the East end zone late in the game. Jerry Richardson of West Texas hit Lewis at the goal line and dumped him in the end zone but the ball was spotted a foot out.

The East then marched 99-2-3 yards for the tying six-pointer, with Lewis scoring from 10 yards out. Parks blocked Pittsburgh's Rick Leeson's extra-point attempt.

Ice A Factor

"I didn't have much trouble with my footing," said Parilli, who passed to Larry Garrison for two touchdowns. "And the ice slowed up the Buffalo rushers."

"I could take my time kicking because Buffalo couldn't get traction to rush me," said Cappelletti, who accounted for 14 points with four field goals and two extra points.

ESSC Places 10th In Mat Tournney

WILKES-BARRE — East Stroudsburg State College's wrestlers placed 10th in the Wilkes Open Tournament with six Warrior grapplers participating.

Chet Dalgewicz and Jan Dutt each gained two wins before bowing in the third matches. Winning their first matches before losing were Roy Miller, Bud Lawrence and Ron Matalkitis. Bell was decisively in his opening match.

In the consolation, Miller defeated Deo of Montclair, Peltz of the Air Force Academy and Sage of West Chester. Dalgewicz won his opening consolation bout while Dutt was decisively in his first match.

The New York Athletic Club won the team championship.

West Michigan Coach Fired

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Merle Schlosser has been fired as football coach at Western Michigan and will be assigned other duties in the physical education department, James W. Miller, the university's president, announced Friday.

Schlosser had held the head coaching job seven years. This seasons team was 2-7 and his over-all record was 28-33-3.

Tripleheader At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Santa Anita presents a unique tripleheader stakes attraction Saturday, with purses aggregating $100,000 in added money awaiting the horsemen.

Twenty-six 2-year-olds were entered Friday in the Breeders' Champion Stakes at seven furlongs, so the field was split and each section will carry a purse of $37,500.

The seven-furlong Malibu Stakes drew 16 3-year-olds and has a value of $25,000 added.

Heaviest football player at Syracuse is Tom Wilhelm, a 290-pound junior tackle from Cleveland.

Giants Show Dejection, Frustration

CHICAGO (AP)—There was a heavy air of dejection and frustration in the Giants dressing room following their third National Football League defeat in as many years, but there were no alibis.

Quarterback Y. A. Tittle sat staring at the floor rubbing a swollen left knee that had forced him out of the game after 8 minutes, 30 seconds of the second period.

Tittle returned in the second half but said, "I just couldn't get back fast enough to get set."

He said he first injured the knee early in the first quarter when he went down after throwing a touchdown pass to halfback Frank Gifford.

"Then I got hit from the side just after I threw that pass in the second period," he said.

No Alibis

Giant Coach Allie Sherman repeated over and over, "We have no alibis. The Bears played a good game and you let us give them the win."

Tittle said enough for my part. "Anybody who says Tittle can't win the big ones just doesn't know football."

"He's played and won more big games in the last three years than anyone. And he went out and played the second half today when very few men would have played."

Sherman then ticked off a list of four Giant players hurt during the game. Tittle, linebacker Tom Scott, who suffered a broken arm; halfback Phil King an injured ankle; and guard Bookie Boll, who suffered a slight concussion.

"The way things were going this team could have broken down between the halves," Sherman said, "but they went out and played themselves a hell of a game."

Sherman said Tittle's knee was strapped up during the half and it was left up to him whether or not to return to the game. "He said he wanted to give it a try, and he went out there and played the whole half."

Credits Defense

Halas Says Win Biggest Triumph

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears whooped it up in their victorious dressing room where owner-coach George Halas announced the 14-10 pulsating triumph over the New York Giants was "my biggest personal satisfaction."

But it was the great Bear defense which took most of the credit, and the game ball of the 1963 National Football League championship went to defensive coach George Allen.

Everyone agreed that it was the interceptions by Larry Morris and Ed O'Bradovich which set up the two touchdowns and gave the Bears their first title since 1946.

No. 1 Defense

"We started the season with the No. 1 defense and we ended it with the No. 1 defense," laughed Halas, who personally led the cheers in the noisy dressing room.

Morris, the most valuable Bear on the field this cold, brisk day admitted that the Bears had anticipated the Giant attack.

"We know they like to throw the screen on the second down and I guess I smelled it, he said in reference to his 61-yard run with an interception which set up the Bears first touchdown. "I'm no halfback, but I was trying to go all the way because I was scared of being hit. But it was O'Bradovich's interception of a screen pass in the third quarter which set up the winning score. "I caught it with one hand, screamed the big defensive end. "Reminded me of the days when I used to grab those passes at Illinois. It was great, just great."

Clutch Pass

Mike Ditka, who caught the clutch pass after O'Bradovich's interception on a third down and nine situation to give Bill Wade the chance to bowl into the end zone, ran around inviting everyone to his spacious bowling alley-restaurant.

Halas, the 68-year-old pioneer who carved his empire in the NFL, was mum about the possibility of retiring.

"Well, we have to think about the Pro Bowl game right now, said Halas. And then after some thought, he added, "There's not much danger of my retiring at the present."

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's sticky-fingered defense intercepted five of Y. A. Tittle's passes and won the National Football League championship for George Halas, their 68-year-old pioneer owner-coach, on a 14-10 triumph Sunday over the New York Giants.

Bill Wade, who directed the Bears attack, scored both Chicago touchdowns on quarterback sneaks from the two and the one after interceptions by Larry Morris and Ed O'Bradovich set them up.

Tittle, holding on a damaged left knee after he was hurt midway in the second period, threw a 14-yard TD pass to Frank Gifford early in the first period after Erich Barnes recovered a fumble by Wade.

Don Chandler's 13-yard field goal in the second period gave the Giants a 10-7 lead that they nursed into the final minutes of the third quarter despite a savage onslaught by the Bear defenders.

Griffing Subs

Young Glynn Griffing, the Giants rookie quarterback, had to play the last half of the second period while 38-year-old Tittle went to the clubhouse for repairs. Y. A. came back for the second half but was harried by those aroused Bear ballhawks.

Still to the very end Tittle was in there pitching, threatening to take it all. The Giants had moved to the Bears 38 with 10 seconds to go when Richie Petitbon stole Tittle's bomb in the end zone for the fifth interception. Y. A. threw his helmet on the frozen turf, exposing his bald pate, and kicked the ground in disgust.

Larry Morris, who intercepted a pass and made life miserable for Tittle and the Giant backs all through the frigid eight-degree afternoon, was picked as the most valuable player in the game for a brilliant job at his right corner linebacker post.

Old Spell Ends

It was the first title for Halas and the Bears since 1946, ending a long string of 17 cold and hungry years. The triumph was particularly heart-warming to Papa Bear, who has been a bulwark of pro football since 1920. The Bears won their eighth league championship, tying the Green Bay Packers in that department. Two came in the days before they held conference playoffs so this victory was their sixth championship game, a record.

The triumph came 30 years after the Bears won their first playoff game in this same Wrigley Field by beating the same opponent, New York, 23-21.

The Giants now have lost 11 of 14 title games, never having won on the road in seven attempts.

Five Interceptions

Tittle, the premier passer in the league and the most valuable player in regular season play, completed only 11 of 29, far below his season mark of 60.2 percentage. He threw for 151 yards, one TD and had five interceptions.

Wade, who went to the bomb on occasion in a switch from his usual ball-control methods, completed 10 of 28 for 138 yards and no scores.

Tittle cashed in on Wades fumble, recovered by Barnes, and hit Frank Gifford with a 14-yard scoring toss at 7:22 of the first period. Don Chandler added the extra point.

The Bears surged back at 14:44 of the same first period after Larry Morris intercepted a Tittle pass, intended as a fake screen to Phil King, and raced 61 yards from the Bears 34 to the Giants six. Wade sneaked home from the two on the second play and rookie Bob Jencks converted.

Kentucky Rolls In Tournament

By HUGH FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky's pore NFL of Wildcats, who apparently don't qualify for any of those abbreviated adjectives, keep rolling along in quest of the top ranking in college basketball as tournament troubles beset most of their leading rivals.

That gave a good line on the Bearcats' strength, as K-State reached the final of the Big Eight pre-season tournament Saturday by whipping Missouri 84-64. Kansas State will meet Oklahoma State, 65-56 winner over Kansas, in Monday's final.

Other Winners

Other major title winners in the spate of holiday tournaments that marked last week's competition included Wichita, Wisconsin, Arizona, DePaul, Penn State, Syracuse, Tennessee and San Jose State. Finals in the Big Eight, Quaker City, New York Holiday Festival and the Far West Classic are scheduled Monday night, along with opening rounds of the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans and the Charlotte, N. C., Holiday Tournament.

Kentucky, with Cotton Nash setting the pace, won its only game last week, piling up a 101-81 score against Notre Dame Saturday night. "That made it eight straight for the Wildcats—a situation almost encouraging enough to make coach Adolph Rupp buy a new brown suit and thus extend his good luck string another decade or so. It was the fifth time in eight games Kentucky had scored in triple figures and Nash again was high scorer with 35 points.

Loyola Bows

Meanwhile, Chicago Loyola, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press poll to Kentucky's No. 2, came a cropper Friday night when it lost to Georgetown in the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia and third-ranked Michigan was beaten by UCLA the same night in the Los Angeles Classic.

UCLA, Cincinnati, Vanderbilt and Oregon State, 4, 5, 6 and 9 in the national rankings, all had successful weeks, indicating a shakeup in the next round of voting.

Loyola bounced back from its upset and whipped Northwestern Saturday 88-82 in a consolation game but can get no better than fifth place in the Quaker City tournament. Michigan took third at Los Angeles by beating Pittsburgh 95-80. New York University, rated No. 10, beat Southern California 70-69 for fifth place.

UCLA Impresses

UCLA was a rather impressive tournament winner as the Bruins stretched their season record to 8-0. Meeting Illinois in the final, UCLA got off to a good lead, then saw the red hot Illini score 10 straight points and cut the margin to 79-78. But the Bruins rallied to snuff out the flame and pulled out an 83-79 victory in the last three minutes.

Vanderbilt won its own invitational tournament by wallopping South Carolina 106-78. Cincinnati opened its Missouri Valley Conference season by downing Tulsa 54-52 in a defensive struggle after having beaten Kansas State 72-70 earlier in the week.

Eddie Mathews of the Milwaukee Braves had a 16-game hitting streak in April.

JOSEPH (Bob) Lehmann, junior guard from Louisville, will captain Notre Dame's 1963 football team.

Guaranteed Repairs?

DEAR CY:

This bid uproot started when my automatic dishwasher conked out. I phoned the dealer and he sent a man over to fix it. When I got the repair bill, I almost collapsed. He had the nerve to throw in labor charges, which I refuse to pay.

The dealer says, "Find the card attached to the washer when it was installed. You'll see it's a warranty and not a guarantee." What's the difference, and what is going on?

MRS. JOHNSON

DEAR MRS. JOHNSON:

Warranties and guarantees are not twins. Blood relations, yes.

A warranty usually covers parts, materials and workmanship in an appliance as delivered. If proven faulty, within stated time limits, restitution is made at no cost to the buyer.

Normally, the selling dealer assumes labor responsibility for one year. Not always.

To quote lower selling prices, some dealers offer first year service on an a la carte basis along with installation and delivery. You buy the meat, but the gravy and potatoes are optional extras.

Unlike a warranty, a guarantee promises labor parts replacement. Sure - fire confusion stimulators are cases where different components of the same electrical appliance are guaranteed or warranted for different periods of time. Appliance manufacturers are currently whirling around, worrying over policies to extend guarantees.

Proponents speak for greater consumer service and manufacturer prestige. Opponents feel resulting increased selling prices will cut sales. Write the manufacturer of your dishwasher, describing the machine, including the serial number and copy of your bill. He'll tell you what your last card promises.

My mother got sick, so I had to move here and get myself a job. The company where I am a file clerk is so tight it squeaks. We only get these six days off with pay: New Year's, Memorial day, the Fourth of July, Labor day, Thanksgiving day, and Christmas.

JULIE FRAIN

DEAR JULIE:

There is no such thing as a national holiday. There are "legal public holidays," designated by the President and Congress, which apply only to federal employees and the District of Columbia. Each state designates what holidays it will observe.

Businesses take it from there. Even Monday, November 25th, although designated as a "day of mourning" for John F. Kennedy by President Lyndon B.

Johnson, was a paid holiday at the option of individual companies. Unions designated it as such within the framework of their contracts.

Through McGraw-Hill, the National Office Management Association published results of a survey among 9,000 companies regarding paid holidays for office workers, which states: "Six paid holidays per year is still most popular, as has been in the past. The eastern U.S. is the most liberal area, according to the findings, with 67 per cent granting eight or more paid holidays."

Richard Leies

Swiftwater Youth Named To Eagle Scout Rank

SWIFTWATER — Richard Leies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Leies of Swiftwater, has been elected an Eagle Scout in Troop 95, Boy Scouts of America, recently at St. Paul's United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Dr. Peter K. Emmons was the principal speaker. He challenged Leies to devote his life in service of others and to be aware, at all times, of the honor being bestowed upon him.

Mrs. David Neison, president of Paradise Community Center which is the troop's sponsor, presented the award to Leies after he and his parents were escorted to the platform by an honor guard of Eagle Scouts.

Following the presentation of the award Leies presented his mother with a miniature pin of the Eagle award.

The Rev. Elmer Meissner gave the invocation and benediction. George Curales, institutional representative of the troop, was master of ceremonies at the court of honor.

Eagle Scout Alex Withlow gave the Eagle dedication and First Class Scout George Kuydus gave the interpretation of the Scout Law.

Members of the honor guard, all Eagle Scouts, were Donald Predmore, Robert Corby, Bob Rodgers and Fred Ducklow.

Leies is a member of St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Swiftwater, and is active in the Sunday school and the church choir.

He is a senior in Pocono Mountain Joint High School and plans a military career after graduation in June.

Leies entered scouting as a member of Cub Scout Pack 95, and in 1957 he became a member of Troop 95. He was elected by his fellow scouts for the Order of the Arrow.

He has served as a patrol leader and is now senior patrol leader of the troop.

Something out of place in America

Yes . . . college shortages which have no place in a country that's dedicated to progress! We need top leaders in quantity. Higher education develops them. But the cost of leadership has skyrocketed. Colleges feel the rise. Many lack classrooms, laboratories and competent teachers.

As a world leader we cannot afford college shortages. College is America's best friend.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!
 To find out how the college crisis affects you, write to HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 10036.

Salvation Army Reports On Christmas Assistance

EAST STROUDSBURG — The generous community support of The Salvation Army annual Christmas appeal has been once again "transformed" into the blessings of Christmas for the less fortunate in this community. It was revealed today by Major H. G. Baker of the East Stroudsburg Corps.

Two hundred and forty-nine families made application for assistance at the Army Office on S. Courtland St. which acted as a clearing house. Of this number 207 received food order checks and toys, and 32 families were taken by other organizations interested in distributing food baskets to the needy.

The local Elks Club and The Salvation Army for many years have checked the lists of applicants to avoid duplication and other Scout, Cub and church groups who have taken a family from the clearing house list.

Approximately 1,000 people were in the 207 families given assistance. While no accurate account of toys was kept, it is expected some 2,000 new and used toys were distributed. Mrs. Foster Minnich, chairman of the Christmas committee, who has been responsible for many years for the toy shop said she thought there were more and better toys this year than as far back as she can remember.

Included in the toy list were two hundred new dolls that were dressed by groups and individuals throughout the county, under the direction of Mrs. Minnich.

Also serving in the toy shop were Mrs. Holt Wyckoff Jr., Mrs. James Morgan, Mrs. Evan Reese, Mrs. Daniel Warner, all of the local Advisory Board and Mrs. Chester Bogart and Raymond Harrison.

Over five hundred treats were given at the General Hospital, Monroe County Jail, Mar-Ment and Laurel Manor and at the Monroe County Home Christmas party. Over 100 guests at the various institutions received Christmas gifts.

The total Christmas budget, which will reach near four thousand dollars, was raised through the Christmas mail appeal and street kettles. With this community support at the Christmas season and at the time of the community fund drive The Salvation Army is able not only to bring to the less fortunate the many blessings of Christmas, but aid at other times of the year as well.

Both Mrs. Minnich and Major Baker extended, on behalf of The Salvation Army, gratitude to all residents of Monroe County for their gifts to the local Christmas Appeal, and to all groups, organizations and individuals for assisting in making the Christmas program successful and possible.

Holiday Accidents Predicted

BETHLEHEM — During the New Year holiday period one person will die and 25 will be injured in 40 auto accidents in a five - county area that includes Monroe, according to the Lehigh Valley Chapter, National Safety Council in Bethlehem.

The chapter said that residents of Monroe, Carbon, Lehigh and Northampton Counties in Pennsylvania and Warren County in New Jersey should heed this warning and keep the accident toll below the estimates.

Drivers were warned to watch out for youngsters with a ball, on skates, or on a sled during the 30 - hour period. The chapter reported that these were the type of accidents that occurred over the Christmas holiday.

"We plead with everyone: drive and walk safely; if the weather is bad, go to that party on public transportation; let the pros drive you."
